

Buy Yourself a Home.

What memories cluster around the sacred name of home! What associations does it not call forth, and what reverence does not the word inspire! Who is not enthralled by being the possessor of a comfortable and happy home, and who can depict the misery that has been inflicted upon millions of the human race, because they never knew the beauties of home.

It is a significant fact that the man who poured forth his soul in the imperishable strains of "Home Sweet Home," never knew that home he sang of, but was doomed through life to be a wanderer from home and friends, dying at last on a foreign soil, unremembered and unknown, never realizing except in dreams, the theme by which he will be remembered while time itself endures.

Building associations are doing an incalculable amount of good in this respect. The motives that induce a man to secure a home will also help him to make it what home should be, and words cannot portray the beneficial effect of the multiplication of happy families.

The advantages Building Associations offer to people of limited means or those working for wages are many. They promote habits of economy and thrift by affording a place for profitable investment of small earnings and savings. They offer unusual facilities for the working man to buy and pay for his home in easy monthly installments. They give, if properly conducted, absolute security for savings and a very large profit besides. They bring members together in constant and friendly consultation, thus cultivating feelings of fraternity as well as posting each other on whatever may possibly affect their interests.

The business is transacted in open monthly meetings where all members are not only welcome, but where they should make it a point to go. There is a great deal to be gained by attending the meetings, in fact there is no better school for people to learn the business they are engaged in and in which they are so much interested. Here you can see the entire routine of conducting the business. You see the money being received and at the close of the meeting or when all is received, put up for sale—much like you see who bids—what premium, if any is paid. You see what security is offered for the loan. You see this security referred to the committee on loans, and at a subsequent meeting you hear the report of this committee either in favor of granting the loan on the security offered, or on such conditions as they may suggest, or else reporting that the loan should not be granted.

The Virtues of Salt.

Salt in the whitewash will make it stick better.

Wash the inside of the stove doors with salt and vinegar.

Brasswork can be kept beautifully bright by occasionally rubbing with salt and vinegar.

To clean willow furniture, use salt and water. Apply it with a nail brush, scrub well and dry thoroughly.

If, after having a tooth pulled, the mouth is filled with salt and water, it will allay the danger of a hemorrhage.

Salt as a tooth powder is better than almost anything that can be bought. It keeps the teeth brilliantly white and the gums hard and rosy.

To wash silk handkerchiefs, soak them first in salt and cold water ten minutes or longer, then wash out in the same water and iron immediately.

Carpets may be greatly brightened by first sweeping thoroughly and then going over them with a clean cloth and clear salt and water. Use a cupful of coarse salt to a large basin of water.

Nothing is better for a sore throat than a gargle of salt water. It may be used as often as desired, and if a little is swallowed each time this used it will cleanse the throat and allay the irritation.

Salt in doses of one to four teaspoonsful in half a pint to a pint of tepid water, is an emetic always on hand. This is always the antidote to be used after poisoning from nitrate of silver, while waiting for the doctor to come.

If the feet are tender or painful after long walking or standing, great relief can be had by bathing them in salt and water. A handful of salt to a gallon of water is the right proportion. Have the water as hot as can comfortably be borne. Immerse the feet and throw the water over the legs as far as the knees with the hands. When the water becomes too cool rub briskly with a flesh towel. This method, if used night and day, will cure neuralgia of the feet.

Silencing a Noisy Talker.

I was greatly amused the other night by the delicate use to which a gentleman within ten feet of me put a venerable scheme for silencing noisy talkers. He had glared and hissed so persistently at a young man and a young woman behind him who chattered without ceasing that from hissing the two men got to words, and when the curtain fell on an intermission there were explanations demanded. The man who wanted to hear the music turned around and said in the blindest tones, but so early that every one within ten feet could hear: "My dear sir, I was not hissing you, but those people up on the stage who sing so loud that I am prevented from catching a few parts of your interesting conversation." The young man subsided amid general laughter, and left with his girl for more congenial society before the curtain rose on the next act. —New York Cor. Brooklyn Eagle.

I hear of a funny mistake which was lately made. A couple who had been married about five years and who had a superfluity of spoons that had been presented to them, determined to get some of them off on friends who were following their example. On receipt of cards announcing a friend's wedding, they chose a nice set of spoons from the collection of the cupboard and dispatched them forth with. The gift was returned the next day, with a note saying that a mistake had evidently been made, as the spoons had initials of the sender's maiden name on the back of the bowl. The unfortunate groom mist had examined the handles and never thought of the initials being placed on the bowls. —Town Topics.

THE LATE DR. J. G. HOLLAND'S OPINION.

A Physician Climbing the Editorial Stairs.

The columns of the newspaper are open to be flooded with proprietary medicine advertisements. As we cast our eyes over them, it brings to mind an article that was published by the late Dr. Holland in Scribner's Monthly. He says: "Nevertheless, it is a fact that many of the best proprietary medicines of the day were more successful than many physicians, and most of them it should be remembered, were at first discovered or used in actual medical practice. When, however, any shrewd person, knowing their virtue, and foreseeing their popularity, secures and advertises them, then, in the opinion of the bigoted, all virtue went out of them."

Is not this absurd? This great man appreciated the real merits of popular remedies, and the absurdity of those that derided them because public attention was called to the article and the evidence of their cures. If the most noted physician should announce that he had made a study of any certain organ or disease of the body, or make his sign larger than the code size, though he may have practiced medicine and been a leader in all medical councils, notwithstanding all this, if he should presume to advertise and decline to give his discovery to the public, he would be pronounced a quack and a humbug, although he may have spent his entire life and all his available funds in perfecting his investigations. Again we say, "absurd."

If an ulcer is found upon one's arm, and is cured by some dear soul of a grandmother, outside of the code, it will be pronounced by the medical profession an ulcer of little importance. But if treated under the code, causing sleepless nights for a month, with the scientific treatment viz., plasters, washes, dosing with morphine, arsenic and other vile substances, given to prevent blood poisoning or deaden pain, and yet the ulcer becomes malignant, and amputation is made necessary at last, to save life, yet all done according to the "isms" of the medical code, this is more gratifying to the medical profession, and adds more dignity to that distinguished order than to be cured by the dear old grandmother's remedy.

This appears like a severe arraignment, yet we believe that it expresses the true standing of the medical profession in regard to remedies discovered outside of their special "isms." One of the most perplexing things of the day is the popularity of certain remedies, especially Warner's safe cure, which we find for sale everywhere. The physician of the highest standing is ready to concede its merits and sustain the theories the proprietors have made—that is, that it benefits in most of the ailments of the human system because it assists in putting the kidneys in proper condition, thereby aiding in throwing off the impurities of the blood, while others with less honesty and experience deride, and are willing to see their patient die scientifically, and according to the code, rather than have him cured by this great remedy. Yet we notice that the popularity of the medicine continues to grow year by year. The discoverer comes boldly before the people with its merits, and proclaims them from door to door in our opinion much more honorably than the physician who, per chance, may secure a patient from some catastrophe, and is permitted to set a bone of an arm or a finger, which he does with great dignity, yet very soon after takes the liberty to climb the editorial stairs at 12 o'clock in the morning to have it announced in the morning paper that "Dr. So-and-so was in attendance," and thus secures for his benefit a beautiful and free advertisement. We shall leave it to our readers to say which is the wisest and most honorable.
